

The lanes are plans, not test results, so they carry no counts. Each starts from its population, names the keys that join the tables and ends in the control total that would show the extract is complete.