

Both sets of effects add up to the same change, −$115,046, and volume is the same at both levels (+$7,886). The rest divides differently because the level differs: at the product-type level, shifts between items within a type appear as price and cost, not as mix. Every bar starts at the zero line.