

Outlined: the three values SQLite returns: 3, because two whole numbers divide as whole numbers; 3.5, because one decimal keeps the decimals; and 0, because the text '2026' is not equal to the number 2026, so the comparison is false and SQLite writes false as 0. The statement is question 15, and a SELECT with no FROM tests any expression before a query uses it.